Message from Laleure

Great wine starts in the vineyard, and this past winter has been gentle on the vines. They look healthy and happy, so we start the growing season on a very positive note.

The tasting room has been refreshed, and a new area organized to display our new Laleure "Silo" tee shirts as well as other merchandise. In addition to Joe, we now have Jen to serve you and help you select those perfect wines to drink on premises or take home

Events at the winery

Hike the Laleure Woods on Saturdays - Spring nature walks start on Saturdays at 10:30, May 7,14,21, and 28. We will hike the 3 mile Nine Bridges Trail at Laleure to see the latest spring flowers to emerge as well as resident and migrating birds (self identification, no certified naturalist except for your Laleure guides and our fellow hikers). Waterproof footgear is highly recommended. There are several steep but short inclines, so hikers be aware before you set out. Bring a picnic lunch and join us afterwards at the winery. No charge for the hike, hike at your own risk. Reservations required, email us at laleurevineyards. Check website home page for any cancellations or changes. More details on the Laleure website.

Music in the Silo Series (Instrumentals)- Saturday afternoons beginning mid May at 1:30 pm Ed Gorse will entertain us with his classical guitar instrumentals (and other string instruments)- Ed will play his wonderful repertoire from up in the silo, where visitors can look out over the valley and on out to Pennsylvania. Feel free to bring your own snacks for an enjoyable, relaxing afternoon. This series will continue through the year, so check the website for the latest Saturday afternoon music. When Ed can't make it, we will have Jay or other musicians there.
